This year, we mark 30 years of community-focused, arts-based fun! We're celebrating with nearly 100 events, involving more than 3000 participants.

We're particularly proud to offer an increased level of FREE activities that can be enjoyed by people of all ages. Our two festival weekends are jam packed with Artists' Open House, multiple fairs, open days and markets. This year, we launch the first ever Festival Fringe at Alleyn's and the Kingswood Arts Carnival Day. We're also bringing back Party in the Park - a special Friday night youth event. All free of charge to attend.

We have a packed programme of live ticketed events, too, including literature, comedy, art, history, walks, performance and music. Early booking recommended to avoid disappointment.

May really is a special time of year in Dulwich and we encourage you all to get amongst it. Bring your friends, family and neighbours and join us in the 30th anniversary celebrations.

We'll see you there!

Annie Mitchell Dulwich Festival Director

We are delighted to again be the Principal Partner of the Dulwich Festival, for the special 30th anniversary year. As a local, independent agent, we are proud to be associated with initiatives like the Festival, that plays such an integral role in our community.

30th Anniversary

In 1993, co-founders Valarie Thorncroft, Marguerite Weedy and Alison Loyd wanted to create an arts festival that would help unite the different parts of Dulwich. Over the past 30 years, the Festival has wonderfully celebrated the culture, community and people of this area. Under the directorship of Valerie Thorncroft, Alpha Hopkins and most recently Annie Mitchell, the Festival has created opportunities for thousands of artists and performers to showcase their talents. Hundreds of thousands of locals have been able to engage in affordable and accessible cultural offerings, right on their door step. To celebrate, we are hosting three special events with thanks to our 30th anniversary partner Alleyn's. These events look to the past, present and future of this community.

We acknowledge and congratulate everyone in the community who has contributed to the festival over the past 30 years.

Street Art Walks

Dulwich Outdoor Gallery

Street art

Amongst the streets of Dulwich are some impressive murals, many of which are interpretations of 17th and 18th century paintings from Dulwich Picture Gallery. This project was founded by Ingrid Beazley FRSA (1950-2017) and artist Stik in 2012.

New murals have been commissioned and relocated, managed by Amanda Greatorex who guides our informative walks. We also include other community artworks en route through East Dulwich.

Welcome to Artists' Open House

It's that wonderful time of the year again when the artistic community opens its doors and welcomes art enthusiasts from South London and beyond. This year we welcome Dulwich Prep London as the Artists' Open House partner. Dulwich Prep London encourages an active interest in the arts and creativity, recognising it as an important part of a child's education. We are delighted to have the school on board as it brings the arts and education to life.

So, muster up your energy as you'll need even more stamina this year! Expect to be impressed by the variety and talent and get to meet the creators and their works: from glass blowers to ceramicists, sculptors to photographers, taxidermists to jewellers, painters to illustrators and recyclers to upcyclers - there is something for everyone.

Look out for the Truepenny's signboards indicating participating houses and venues and, for two weekends just truly immerse yourself in the arts.

Windows and Thresholds

HOSTED BY BELL HOUSE, 27 COLLEGE ROAD SE21 7BG

Fine art; performance; photography; prints; sculpture

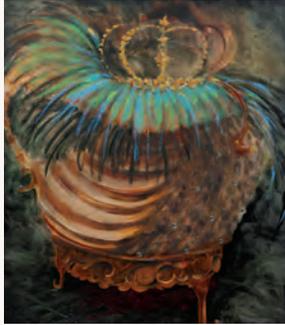

Over 40 artists - painters, printmakers, sculptors, filmmakers, and photographers - explore the theme of Windows and Thresholds in a series of five exhibitions in Bell House. With a nod to the new Berthe Morisot show at Dulwich Picture Gallery, Windows and Thresholds considers whether these are barriers symbolic of separation and division or portals of opportunity. Looking inwards and outwards a group of female curators each take a room and invite us to cross over into their worlds.

Fine art; sculpture

London-based artist Yohan Le Peuch displays a collection of carved works alongside the stone carvings of Dulwich Prep London's pupils. Mixing a fascination for both the old and the new, Yohan's work draws its aesthetic inspirations from comic books, memes, and advertisements, all the while referencing myths, fairy tales, and ancient history. By looking at the imagery within myths and our human fascination with storytelling, his work seeks to distil the archetypes our shared narrative traditions contain into sculptural form.

Peter Layton, Sophie Layton & London Glassblowing

Galleries; glass; prints

Artist, pioneer, and mentor, Peter Layton is one of the founding fathers of British studio glass. He has played a major part in elevating glass from a material used primarily for industrial purposes to a highly collectable art form. As an avid beachcomber, Peter is endlessly fascinated by the natural world, often drawing inspiration for his glass art. He is also heavily influenced by the manmade; a stone wall on a snowy day, the London skyline, and often by painters he admires. He achieves consummate works of art which express both painterly and sculptural values.

Exhibiting with her father, Sophie Layton is an established printmaker, relatively new to glass art. Sophie explores light with the aim to create expression through the use of subtle colour and a rich painterly quality in print. Her use of vibrant colour, together with a fascination for the refractive and reflective qualities of glass runs in the family.

Work will also be on display by London Glassblowing resident artists Tim Rawlinson and Bruce Marks. Tim has established himself internationally as a leading glass artist. He has created his own language with his simple geometric forms, using a combination of blown, cast and polished techniques. His fascination with the relationship between light and glass heavily influences his work, leading him to develop the transparent quality of the medium. Bruce will display his ongoing series 'Birds' which has been hugely successful, and its evolution has attracted an avid and enthusiastic public following.

DULWICH PREP LONDON

Proud supporter of Dulwich Festival Artists' Open House

Dulwich Prep London is a remarkable school. Since becoming the Head Master in 2019, I can honestly say I am excited to come to work every day.

The purpose of education is always about interpreting human interactions with each other, the world around us and enabling individuals to understand human creativity. Before numerals and language came art and song, and we are privileged as educators to ensure that the arts, in all their forms, continue to play a central role in society.

On a personal level, I am fascinated by the way that every child has a different perspective and can bring joy and colour to their own interpretation from the very start of their learning journey.

The arts enrich our culture, society, and our lives. It is vital that children have these opportunities in order to become well-rounded individuals and contributing members of our communities.

Louise Davidson

Head Master, Dulwich Prep London

This year Dulwich Prep London are hosting stone carver Yohan Le Peuch and glassblower Peter Layton, together with fellow glassblowers Tim Rawlinson and Bruce Marks and printmaker Sophie Layton. See pages 38-39.

A Village Walk

Saturday 13th is the Festival's Day in the Village. This is the perfect opportunity to enjoy Artists' Open House venues along our suggested trail, as well as other Festival activities.

Start the day by dropping into Sustainable Stalls Market at St Barnabas Parish Hall 10am-4pm.

Then head straight to Blue Patch 17 showing at Dulwich Picture Gallery, an historic gallery dating back to the 1600s with a lovely café to enjoy a light refreshment.

A few steps away is Bell House 16 on College Road, with 40 artists and craft makers in this elegant Georgian house.

Wander into Frank Dixon Way and meet glass maker Hilary Woof 18 and before heading across the South Circular take a stroll through Lovers Walk to see the collection of artists at the Old College Lawn Tennis & Croquet Club 11. Then cross to Pond Cottages and see four painters, sculptors, and ceramicists 28.

Walk up through the tollgate enjoying the impressive school and grounds of Dulwich College and meet the Tollgate Collective 26.

Back on College Road and just near Sydenham Hill Station meet weaver Bridget Lane and ceramicist Birgit Pohl 25.

Now for your hill climb! Just before St Stephen's Church take the steep path up to three venues - Sarah Hamilton and friends 160, Justine Ellis 161, Christine Hodson 159. If you make it, there is the Wood House pub to enjoy a cool beer or ice-cold glass of wine.

Otherwise continue straight on taking the station's pedestrian overpass towards Seeley Drive and follow the road to Kingswood Arts where 15 extraordinary artists have taken residence 30.

Down the hill now and round the corner to Little Bornes for the East Southeast Asian designers collective 29.

Return to Alleyn Park and stop at Kingsdale Foundation school 27 and get to meet the young stars of the future.

Then, drop into the Head Masters house of Dulwich Prep London 31 to see some amazing hand-blown glass pieces and stone carvings.

In need of a break? Enjoy a refreshment at the Belair House Picnic Day 12-5pm or relax in the Village Orchard at the Wild Teddy Bear's picnic 12-4pm.

Continue into the Village to see Janet Whittaker hosting six artists in Pickwick Road 5 and then drop into Romeo Jones for a coffee, whilst enjoying Janet Tod's colourful still life paintings 8.

Next, enjoy a cheese tasting at Heritage Cheese 2 and two more artists in Calton Ave 3 & 4.

Just around the corner, visit the Festival pop up, with four displaying artists and the 30th Festival Commemorative Exhibition 1.

Still want more fun? Strictly Swing with King Groovy & the Horn Stars play at St Barnabas Parish Hall at 7.30pm.

More art trails available on the Festival website.
